

Claims

1. An ostomy support garment in the form of a material having a hole for receiving a stoma, said hole having a stabilised edge wherein the edge is
5 provided with an element allowing an increase or reduction of the length of the edge of the hole, wherein the hole is provided with a slit, which juts from the edge of the hole into the material and the element is a fastening element enabling a closure of the slit reducing the perimeter of the hole.
- 10 2. A garment as claimed in claim 1 wherein the fastening is an element closing the slit is a lace placed in a passage at the edge of the hole, said passage being interrupted by the slit.
- 15 3. A garment as claimed in claim 7 wherein the fastening is an element closing the slit is a zip-like fastener, snaps, buckles, buttons, rings or by mating elements of hook and loop fastening material bridging the slit at the edge of the hole.